Daily update
(29 September 2020, 1.45pm)

Topics in this Core Brief:
- Health and Safety Training – only FIVE weeks left to complete your training
- Life on the Frontline – Paul Hull, Health Improvement Practitioner
- National Portrait Gallery exhibition

Health and Safety Training – Protect yourself, your colleagues, patients and visitors.

The countdown is now on with FIVE weeks to complete your Health & Safety training. Don’t wait, complete your training in now. For further information see here and to complete the training modules go to your LearnPro account.

Life on the Frontline

Paul Hull, Health Improvement Practitioner for Mental Health and Deafness talks to us about the difficulties the deaf community are experiencing during the pandemic.

We hope that you are enjoying these personal accounts of life on the frontline during the pandemic. If you would like to feature in one of the videos and tell us about how you and colleagues have been affected, then please get in touch (staffnewsletter@ggc.scot.nhs.uk).

National Portrait Gallery exhibition

In the midst of the pandemic, nurse Lindsay Macdonald reassures little Hannah as she carries her to the operating theatre at the Royal Hospital for Children. This moment was captured by Lisa Miller, photographer with our Medical Illustration team.
The picture has been selected as one of 100 photos to be displayed in the National Portrait Gallery’s new exhibit: Hold Still which captures a collective portrait of the UK during lockdown and the pandemic over the past six months. Lisa’s photo was chosen out of 31,000 submissions. Click here to read more.

Lisa said: “I took this shot during the height of the pandemic and it shows that in the middle of what was and still is a scary time for everyone, the comfort of a nurse to a young patient”.

Social distancing is everyone’s responsibility
Remember 2m distancing includes breaks and lunchtimes

Do it, encourage it. Don’t spread the virus at work or home

Are your contact details up-to-date? Click here to check