What have we added?

In response to your feedback, gathered through the programme teams managing the testing pathways, and through the support function in the system; we have added two new features.

You can now create user accounts in the system. When you create these accounts we will gather all your personal information at the start. Once logged in the system will remember you and you will only need to give us details of the particular test you are reporting. We hope that this will improve your experience with the process, and make reporting this data to us a smoother process.

In addition, you can also now upload a number of tests to us at once using a pre-formatted spreadsheet. This is intended to support areas where testing data is being collected centrally before being uploaded.

Our privacy notice has also been updated, and you should read this to understand how we manage your data. There is a link on the front page of the portal.
User registration

You can now register your details with us. The system will remember you and when you log in to record a test you have taken you only need to supply us with the detail of the test kit, the time and date of the test and the result.

When you enter the portal you should select the option below. This will take you to a log-in screen where you can either log in with your account, or if it your first time here, create a new account.

Creating an account

When you create an account we will ask you for a number of pieces of information about who you are, why you are being tested, and for contact details in case you test positive and need to be contacted by Test and Trace.

Depending on your reason for being tested, we may also ask you for some extra pieces of information, such as your workplace.

If you are concerned about how this information will be used you can read the privacy notice; you can find a link to this on the front page above the Captcha.

Entering a new test record

Once signed in, to enter a new record click on ‘log a new test result’. You will then be taken to the following screen. Fill out the required information and press submit.
Bulk upload

We have added functionality to allow users to register a number of tests at once on behalf of others. This is intended to facilitate local processes, for example for visitors in care homes, where staff may be collecting data for people being tested and entering this data together. It is not available to a user who is logged in using the new user registration feature.

How do I use the bulk upload function?

Once you have confirmed that you are not a robot and entered the system, you should select the ‘Rapid Testing (LFT) option, and from there choose ‘bulk upload’.

You will then enter this screen. Download the spreadsheet using the link on the page, and enter up to 50 test records, ensuring that you fill out all the mandatory information.

Complete the spreadsheet, save it and upload it by clicking "Browse". After you confirm consents, you should select the reason that these people took the test.

Note that all of the people should be of a similar role for the reason for taking the test, as this will apply to all records. If you wish to upload for multiple reasons, this should be done in separate uploads.

When you upload the spreadsheet, a pop up will appear confirming how many positive and negative tests you uploaded.
Updating your details in the Rapid Testing (LFT) Portal

You can now view and edit your details if you are registered for the Rapid Testing (LFT) Portal. For example, you would use this feature if you have changed your address or your working location. New locations are added frequently, so if you registered your details as "Other" for some questions in the sign-up process, you may find more relevant options now.

Log into the portal as normal by clicking the button as shown and following the instructions.

Click on "Update your personal details" and you will be taken to a page that displays your current record.

Single Sign On (SSO) for the Rapid Testing (LFT) portal

If you have not signed up for an account yet, if you are an NHS user you may not need to create a separate account as a result of a technical changes we have made. This will speed up the results logging process.

To use this feature, enter the portal and click "Log in/register for rapid testing (LFT)", and instead of logging in with your username and password, click "Log in using your NHS single sign on (SSO)" at the very bottom of the page.

You may be logged straight into the portal if you are logged into other services like email, but if not, you will need to sign in using your normal NHS email and password.

NB: You may be redirected to the homepage after logging in. If this is the case, you can simply click "Log in/register" again and you will be taken to the correct page.

To update your details, tick the box for the relevant information and then type or select the updated details. Once you are finished select "Submit" on the right side of the page on desktop or at the bottom on mobile.

NB: Occasionally when you visit the update details page, you may see a sequence of numbers and letters as above instead of the option you were expecting. This is a result of "timing out": because the dropdown menus have many thousands of options, your browser may force the page to stop loading. If this happens, there is no need for concern because this is simply the browser failing to show the dropdown correctly and will not affect registering results. You can simply refresh the page and in most cases your browser will correct this issue.

If you submit an update to your details and you notice that one of the options that you did not update appears malformed like the above, there is also no cause for concern and your details have indeed updated successfully.
What should I do if I have any issues with the portal?
There is a dedicated helpline. Call 0800 008 6587

What should I do if I forget my password for the LFT user registration?
There is an automated password reset function on the log-page. Please use this and follow the instructions

Is my data safe if I register an account?
Yes, we are governed by a privacy policy. You can read the document by visiting CovidTestingPortal.scot and clicking on the link in the text on the front page.

Do I have to register an account?
No, registration is completely optional.

I get an error when I upload my spreadsheet
Make sure that you are using the spreadsheet which has “For Uploading Lateral Flow Test Results Only”. If you have altered the spreadsheet in any way other than entering data in the correct fields, it will not work. download the spreadsheet on the LFT Bulk Upload page and try again.

Nothing happens when I upload my spreadsheet
You may encounter problems using older browsers. Up to date versions of Edge, Chrome or Firefox should be used.

Can I upload all of my care home’s LFT test results at once?
There are some restrictions in the bulk upload. You can only upload 50 results at one time. Also, each person you are uploading the results for must be taking the lateral flow test for the same reason. For example, you could upload a spreadsheet for all care home staff, but you would need to upload a separate spreadsheet for care home visitors. This is because each testing purpose is treated separately for contact tracing and statistical reasons.
